AN ANALYSIS OF ENGLISH APPOSITION AS FOUND IN COOL’N SMART MAGAZINE

Andi Syahputra¹, Nova Rina¹, Havid Ardi²

¹English Department, Faculty of Humanities, Bung Hatta University
²English Department, Faculty of Languages and Arts, State University of Padang
E-mail: syahputraandi@yahoo.com

Abstract

This research aims to inquiry English apposition in English Magazine, especially for exploring more about the kind of apposition that is used by several writers from Cool’n Smart magazine. The researcher used theory of apposition proposed by Quirk (1985). The data were collected by observation method and library study. In analyzing the data, the researcher applied distribution method and elimination technique. For presenting the data, formal and informal were chosen. Based on the fact and analysis the researcher found that there are four kinds of apposition in Cool’n Smart magazine such as full, partial, strict and weak apposition. Furthermore, Quirk (1985: 1305-1306) have also put forward eight combination of appositional types. However, the researcher found that there are only types combination of appositional types in Cool’n Smart magazine full, strict restrictive and non restrictive. For the last, the researcher also summarizes that full and partial apposition is the most occurred in the Cool’n Smart magazine.

Key words: apposition, magazine, types, combination